Dear Friends,

This Christmastime will be very different for a number of reasons. We will have had the CO₂PENHAGEN meeting on climate change – a last opportunity to 'save the planet'; we will be recovering from a recession in which we've all been affected; and we'll be preparing ourselves for a year in which we have a general election that will change the political landscape. Rosalind and I have personal family reasons for viewing this Christmas as very different from previous ones. You may have, too.

Yet the message is still the same, and the carols that celebrate the Good News are the same: God loved the world so much, He sent his only Son to be born as one of us. Remember that many of your neighbours may have no idea at all what Christmas is really about. There may no longer be nativity plays at school and the 'musak' in the supermarket mixes carols and Christmas songs. Was Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer in the stable? You may be the only person to tell them what we are celebrating at Christmas. This Christmastime could be very different – it could be the time you change your neighbour's life for good! And I promise you that if you ask God for opportunities to share the Good News, He will answer that prayer!

I wish you every blessing for a peaceful Christmas, and a New Year full of hope and fulfilment.
